

Opportunities for Faculty

GSTF - Global Science & Technology Forum

W&J College is one of only 32 institutions of higher education throughout the world to be named a Partner University of the Global Science & Technology Forum (GSTF). Based in Singapore, GSTF provides a broad range of research opportunities in the areas of Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (STEM). GSTF hosts numerous conferences throughout the year and publishes a number of journals to disseminate and support research. W&J faculty have published their research through GSTF venues, and participate in the editorial and peer-review process. A number of GSTF publications are among the resources available through W&J's U. Grant Miller library.

For more information on the Global Science & Technology Forum's broad range of services and partnerships, see www.globalstf.org.