

Office of Communications Wiki Home

Menu

Our mission as the Office of Communications is to strengthen Washington & Jefferson College's evolving brand story to connect with targeted stakeholders, including prospective and current students, faculty and staff, alumni, and the community. We are committed to delivering—and to helping others associated with the College deliver—a strategic multi-channel media mix of actionable messages that foster positive engagement with the College by people across the nation and the world.

Here you will find information that you need to request your project (brochure, pamphlet, news piece, website, etc), and how to use our project management system called Wrike.

Need Comm Team Help?

Do you need videography, photography, a brochure or pamphlet made? Or would you like media publicity around your upcoming campus event or a website change?

Request a Project