PHL231 - Environmental Ethics

This course explores a wide range of theoretical perspectives on the grounds, nature, and extent of moral obligations related to the environment and philosophical dimensions of such concrete issues as global warming and sustainability.

Prerequisite: One PHL course or permission of the instructor